

Paul Mathieu

Aria Project

The Aria collection of hand-cast, signed bronze furniture and lighting, inspired by a commission to design liturgical furniture for an 18th century Baroque church in Aix-en-Provence, continues to grow as further sculptural pieces are added.

A delicate, honed aesthetic, combined with a sensual use of colour and choice of simple yet luxurious and beautifully crafted materials, gives these works a particular elegance that has rendered the chairs, at the core of the collection, design classics. The exceptional application of sculptural form to functional objects has resulted in numerous awards. As the collection expands, so yet more iconic pieces emerge.

Paul Mathieu

Educated at prestigious art and design establishments in France and England, Mathieu's unique fluid style, and exceptional ability to create outstanding work using a wide range of both common and unusual materials, rapidly gained him a reputation that has consistently attracted the attention of preeminent design visionaries and collectors worldwide. He currently divides his time between New York, Aix-en-Provence, Udaipur and Murano.
